

cathedral ... with dynamite, organ and all' heedless of the 'cultured voluptuaries'. May many such travel to King's Chapel on Wednesday for Gillian Weir's Salut à Olivier Messiaen, a major promotion to honour the eightieth birthday year of the doyen of modern French music! Then, on Friday lunchtime, Jacques van Oortmerssen, who is world famous for his interpretation of Baroque music, plays Bach in Pembroke College Chapel.

But it is not 'organ organ all the time'! On Tuesday, the Frobenius can be heard with Chetham's Orchestra, from Britain's premier specialist music school; midst the art exhibits at the Yarrow, Renaissance and Restoration consort music; piano virtuosi Anthony Goldstone and Caroline Clemmow perform in the Stahl Theatre whilst Fotheringhay Church provides an inspiring setting for Baroque ensemble Musica Donum Dei on Friday. To complete the festival atmosphere, there is family entertainment in the form of a Rally of Street Organs with stalls, sideshows and dancing displays, all over Oundle on Saturday - and the Festival Club!

'This will prove a brave kingdom to me, where I shall have my music for nothing' remarks Stephano in The Tempest. Alas our present economic climate provides not such a utopia and so we should like to record here our grateful thanks to all who have given the Week generous financial and practical support: our many Sponsors, Friends and advertisers, Trust Funds, Northamptonshire County Council, East Midlands Arts, Oundle Town Council and fundamentally the Governors and Headmaster of Oundle School.

Welcome to the Week - enjoy the spread!
