Bach Interpretation

Articulation Marks in Primary Sources of J.S. Bach
JOHN BUTT

This is the first comprehensive assessment of J.S. Bach's use of articulation marks (i.e. slurs and dots) in the large body of primary sources. Dr Butt analyses the role of such markings within the compositional process, how they relate to the norms of articulation of the period, and how they might assist us in a deeper understanding and evaluation of Bach's style.

Bach Studies

Edited by DON O. FRANKLIN

This volume of essays by leading American and European scholars reflects the increasing breadth and scope of current Bach studies. Many of the authors focus on works which, thanks to the new Bach chronology, can now be seen in a fresh light.

The Making of the Victorian Organ

NICHOLAS THISTLETHWAITE

This book provides a comprehensive survey of English organ-building during the most innovative fifty years in its history. Dr Thistlethwaite considers most of the major church, cathedral and concert organs built between 1820 and 1870, a period which saw a radical transformation in the design and use of English organs.

Exceptionally well produced, the Dover books have attractive covers and are sturdily made to stand up to years of use.

Authoritative editions are used, the texts are the finest available and the music is clear and beautifully reproduced. Yet these fine books are remarkably inexpensive.

Dover Publications are exclusively distributed to music shops by Music Sales Limited.
