The Performers

Terry Lightfoot

Of all current European bandleaders, Terry Lightfoot is without doubt the most appropriate to head a tribute to Louis Armstrong. Terry had formed his first band in 1955 when, a year later, he was to become one of the very few British musicians to play alongside the great Satchelmouth (or Satchmo as he became known). In 1965 Terry Lightfoot and his Band were invited to share the bill for the 1965 UK tour by the Louis Armstrong All Stars, the tour which introduced Hello Dolly into the hit parade.

The Cotton Club Orchestra

The Cotton Club was a unique New York night spot during the '20s and '30s, famed for its jazz style. Keith Nichols and Graham Read, founders and co-leaders of the Cotton Club Orchestra, have been prime movers in promoting the Cotton Club style over the last twenty years and, together with featured vocalist Paz Parry, will create the mood for dancing as the sun goes down, candle lanterns are lit and the stars come out.
