Alongside Marilyn Monroe and James Dean, Billie Holiday is one of the great American popular icons, their names immortalised by their premature and tragic deaths. Lady Sings the Blues offers a rare opportunity to hear her music as Billie would have performed it on stage, in celebration rather than imitation.

Val Wiseman first started singing during the trad jazz boom, appearing with many well known bands including Monty Sunshine, Humphrey Lyttelton, Alex Welsh and Sandy Brown.

The Cotton Club Orchestra

David Priseman & Alan Berlin, trumpet

The Cotton Club Orchestra was formed by pianist Keith Nichols in 1989. The band's repertoire includes the great jazz classics of stars such as Louis Armstrong, Fats Waller and Duke Ellington. Over the last decade they have appeared at numerous jazz festivals in the UK and throughout Europe.
