Join the Friends of the Festival, and help to ensure the future of Oundle International Festival

Like most arts organisations in the UK today, Oundle International Festival, a registered charity, relies heavily upon sponsorship and donations to survive. It receives very little public funding, and faces an enormous task each year to find the very large sums of money necessary to promote the Festival and the concurrent Summer School for Young Organists.

The Friends of the Oundle Festival are a band of enthusiastic and generous people keen to maintain the quality and sense of enjoyment that the Festival has built up over the last nineteen years; many are also motivated by Oundle's acclaimed courses for young organists. They pay an annual subscription, but often their support does not end there. Many Friends offer to accommodate visiting artists and tutors, or collect them from the station; they stuff envelopes with a will, and distribute publicity material. The Friends also sponsor a concert.

In return we offer a complimentary copy of the souvenir programme, invitations to a reception during the Festival, occasional visits to concerts in other areas and more. But we believe that most of our Friends contribute because they have a genuine desire to see the Festival and Summer Schools flourish. If you would like to join their number, please complete the form overleaf. If you would like more information first, please phone 01832 272026 or call in at the charming festival office in The Creed Chapel at Ashton, just outside Oundle; you will be made very welcome. By joining the Friends you will be helping not just the Festival but also the hundreds of young and very talented organ students who attend the Oundle summer schools.

It's simple to join: just add the amount you would like to give at the bottom of the postal booking form overleaf, complete your name and address details and we will do the rest.
