

OBSERVERS

Oundle offers a warm welcome

At all Oundle's 2005 events Observers are welcome to join the party. This is a popular option for adult organists, teachers and music lovers of all ages, offering a stimulating break in friendly company.

Traditionally Observers have attended the Oundle-based July summer schools which run alongside the extensive Festival programme. There is a great choice of classes to attend, to say nothing of all the concerts, historic venues to visit, pleasant scenery and warm hospitality. There will be scope for them to travel on awaydays arranged for the students, and for those who are organists, access to some of the organs for individual practising may be possible.

The fee (£280 for the week 17-24 July, or £46 on a daily basis) covers everything except bed and breakfast; lunch and supper, coffee and tea, admission to concerts and travel to events are all included.

Oundle Tourist Information Centre (tel 01832 274333)

will be happy to help you find local accommodation: lists are available for hotels, B&B and camping sites.

A warm welcome also awaits Observers who would like to listen in on classes taking place at Get Ahead! days, Pulling Out the Stops, and in Cambridge and Oxford (during July).

Please write or telephone to discuss and make arrangements.
